SUNE

Sune is the artistic collaboration of Audri Acuña and Jonas Margraf. The couple creates audiovisual works primarily for performances, but also for installations.

The two started working on music together and formed Sune while studying electronic composition and sound design at Berklee College of Music in Boston. Following the completion of their studies, they released a self-titled EP in the fall of 2014 and moved to Austin, Texas.

After living in Austin and playing dozens of shows, the search for a new creative direction - as well as an expiring U.S. visa - led the duo to move again, this time to Berlin, where Acuña works on music for television and advertising while Margraf is pursuing a Master's degree in audio technology.
